

Introduction to HeartMath

HeartRate Variability Training

Training is intended for PTs, PTAs, OTs, OTAs, and SLPs
Sponsored by Ensign Services, Inc and open to all therapists in the community free of charge

Registration Closes August 14th, 2023

Course Overview: This Introduction to HeartMath Course is designed to teach clinicians tools and technology that blend increased self-awareness with emotional self-regulation skills, ultimately leading to measurable improvements in physiological and behavioral functioning. The clinicians will also be trained to teach their patients basic techniques for self-regulation and increase heart-rate variability for improved participation and outcomes in therapeutic interventions

Course Objectives: At the end of this introductory course, clinicians will have a better understanding of the following concepts:

- The heart is uniquely connected to the brain and body and plays a key role in emotional experience and perception.
- Emotions have a profound impact on and are reflected in heart-rate variability (HRV) patterns.
- Heart-rhythm monitoring and feedback training are powerful adjuncts to teaching emotional control and provide a fascinating window into observing and actually impacting the autonomic nervous system (ANS).
- Heartmath biofeedback devices can be used both personally and with our patient population for a wide range of physical, mental, and emotional challenges
